Report from Science Fair Winners Trip to Eden

The winners of the Emmaus Secondary Science Fair travelled to Eden last week to enjoy a two-day excursion with a focus on Marine Biology.

During their time there they visited the Eden Marine Centre where they conducted studies of the local rockpools, participated in a fish dissection and met the centre's resident octopus.

They also visited the Eden Killer Whale Museum where they were introduced to Old Tom, the skeleton of a local killer whale who used to pull boats and help the Eden whalers catch other types of whales.
